

 PAESSLER®

the network monitoring company

The Paessler product range was born out of our belief that professional software applications should be affordable and should make complex technical processes easier. As a company, we work in small, flexible teams using object and component oriented development technologies. The result is a range of powerful and professional solutions for enterprises and small businesses alike, with a truly excellent price-performance ratio.

 software with a passion

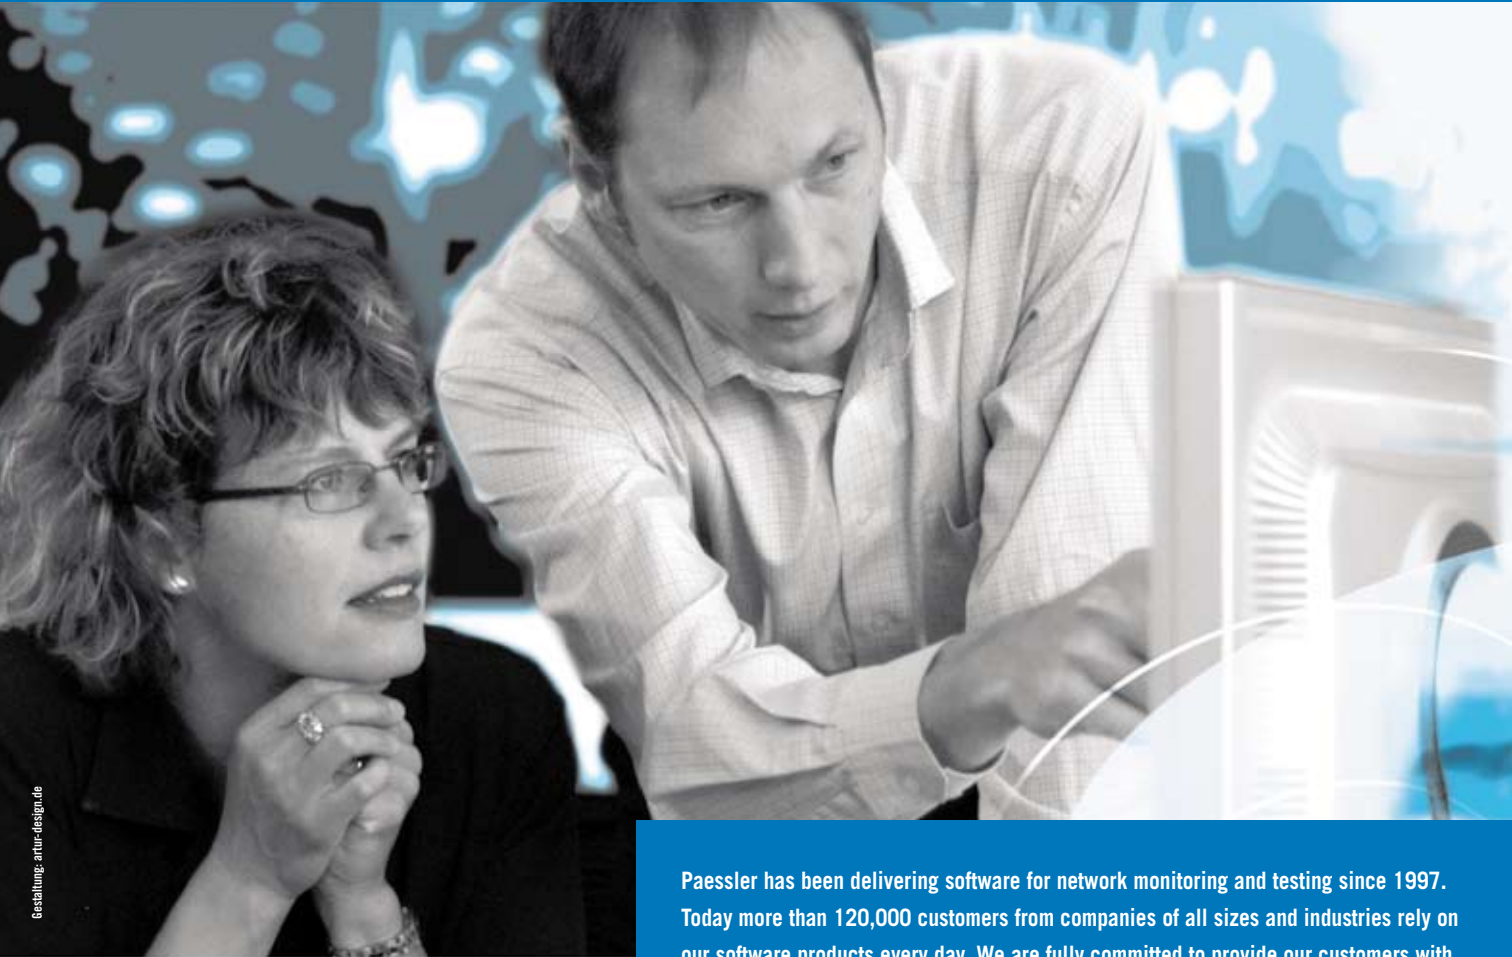

We develop applications that simplify and visualize complex processes. Our software products can be used intuitively and are designed to offer efficient solutions without the need for time-consuming training or expensive workshops. Our software is designed to allow small and medium-sized enterprises to employ technologies which, in the past, were only available to large corporations. Our pricing strategy means that a reliable IT-infrastructure is feasible, even on a smaller budget.
